Here is the Bible explained in one paragraph:
God and His law are perfect but we are not, so there's a gap between God's perfect law and our imperfect obedience. That gap is called "sin," and God mandated the penalty of death for sin (Romans 6:23). So you may be a good person compared to other people, but in God's system of justice, we are all death row inmates. That's the bad news. The good news is that God loves us and wanted to save us. But because God is just, He couldn't simply turn a blind eye to our sins, as that would have been unjust. So what did God do to both save us AND uphold His just penalty of death for our sins? The Bible says that some →

Here is the Bible explained in one paragraph:
God and His law are perfect but we are not, so there's a gap between God's perfect law and our imperfect obedience. That gap is called "sin," and God mandated the penalty of death for sin (Romans 6:23). So you may be a good person compared to other people, but in God's system of justice, we are all death row inmates. That's the bad news. The good news is that God loves us and wanted to save us. But because God is just, He couldn't simply turn a blind eye to our sins, as that would have been unjust. So what did God do to both save us AND uphold His just penalty of death for our sins? The Bible says that some →

Here is the Bible explained in one paragraph:
God and His law are perfect but we are not, so there's a gap between God's perfect law and our imperfect obedience. That gap is called "sin," and God mandated the penalty of death for sin (Romans 6:23). So you may be a good person compared to other people, but in God's system of justice, we are all death row inmates. That's the bad news. The good news is that God loves us and wanted to save us. But because God is just, He couldn't simply turn a blind eye to our sins, as that would have been unjust. So what did God do to both save us AND uphold His just penalty of death for our sins? The Bible says that some →

Here is the Bible explained in one paragraph:
God and His law are perfect but we are not, so there's a gap between God's perfect law and our imperfect obedience. That gap is called "sin," and God mandated the penalty of death for sin (Romans 6:23). So you may be a good person compared to other people, but in God's system of justice, we are all death row inmates. That's the bad news. The good news is that God loves us and wanted to save us. But because God is just, He couldn't simply turn a blind eye to our sins, as that would have been unjust. So what did God do to both save us AND uphold His just penalty of death for our sins? The Bible says that some →

Here is the Bible explained in one paragraph:
God and His law are perfect but we are not, so there's a gap between God's perfect law and our imperfect obedience. That gap is called "sin," and God mandated the penalty of death for sin (Romans 6:23). So you may be a good person compared to other people, but in God's system of justice, we are all death row inmates. That's the bad news. The good news is that God loves us and wanted to save us. But because God is just, He couldn't simply turn a blind eye to our sins, as that would have been unjust. So what did God do to both save us AND uphold His just penalty of death for our sins? The Bible says that some →

Here is the Bible explained in one paragraph:
God and His law are perfect but we are not, so there's a gap between God's perfect law and our imperfect obedience. That gap is called "sin," and God mandated the penalty of death for sin (Romans 6:23). So you may be a good person compared to other people, but in God's system of justice, we are all death row inmates. That's the bad news. The good news is that God loves us and wanted to save us. But because God is just, He couldn't simply turn a blind eye to our sins, as that would have been unjust. So what did God do to both save us AND uphold His just penalty of death for our sins? The Bible says that some →

Here is the Bible explained in one paragraph:
God and His law are perfect but we are not, so there's a gap between God's perfect law and our imperfect obedience. That gap is called "sin," and God mandated the penalty of death for sin (Romans 6:23). So you may be a good person compared to other people, but in God's system of justice, we are all death row inmates. That's the bad news. The good news is that God loves us and wanted to save us. But because God is just, He couldn't simply turn a blind eye to our sins, as that would have been unjust. So what did God do to both save us AND uphold His just penalty of death for our sins? The Bible says that some →

Here is the Bible explained in one paragraph:
God and His law are perfect but we are not, so there's a gap between God's perfect law and our imperfect obedience. That gap is called "sin," and God mandated the penalty of death for sin (Romans 6:23). So you may be a good person compared to other people, but in God's system of justice, we are all death row inmates. That's the bad news. The good news is that God loves us and wanted to save us. But because God is just, He couldn't simply turn a blind eye to our sins, as that would have been unjust. So what did God do to both save us AND uphold His just penalty of death for our sins? The Bible says that some →

Here is the Bible explained in one paragraph:
God and His law are perfect but we are not, so there's a gap between God's perfect law and our imperfect obedience. That gap is called "sin," and God mandated the penalty of death for sin (Romans 6:23). So you may be a good person compared to other people, but in God's system of justice, we are all death row inmates. That's the bad news. The good news is that God loves us and wanted to save us. But because God is just, He couldn't simply turn a blind eye to our sins, as that would have been unjust. So what did God do to both save us AND uphold His just penalty of death for our sins? The Bible says that some →